But they une derrated the intelligence of the American people -and all this would have been unavailing, but for the hosts of ignorant and deluded foreigners. whom they bave succeeded by the grossest do ception and fraud in, rullying around their inglorious standard. It is undeniable that Henry Clay has received an increased majority of the Feed on her damask chesk; she pined in thought American votes-almajority far greater, in all probability, that were ever given to any former candidate for the Presidency in a contested election. The victory of our opponents is an anti-American triumph, achieved solely by toreign aid. Foreign influence, foreign votes and foreign gold have done the deed. The Whigs constitute the American party-our opponents are the Foreign party. This elect-on-She scattered smiles, like kindling darts, around has fastened a stigma upon them which must cling to them in all coming time, like the brand And all, alike, the same sweet being found her, of Cain. Courage, then, fellow Whigs! and 'look aloft!' Our opponents have besten us in this contest, but they cannot long triumph by such means. The well meaning and patriotic amongst them can feel no pride in a triumph When the first flush of joy at their uneapected success shall have passed away-when they shall have had time to review the means and the instruments by which it has been achievedcharrin and mortification will succeed, and thousands of them in all parts of the country will ere long rally to the American side of the great struggle which is yet to take place. Can the final result be for one moment doubtful?-

No no. We can and most yet triumph. The difficulties of our opponents will but commence with their accession to power. Let us wait and see how th y will use it. Hitherto their work has been that of opposing, misrepresenting and slandering us and our candidate. They had only to say 'we are against every thing the whigs are for which was indeed a thing very easy to say. But when they come to assume the reeponsibility of administering the government of a vast country, and are compelled to propose measures of their own, they will find themselves embarked on a troubled sea, with breakers ahead and astern and on every side; and if they escape And could not, would not mingle with the crew shipwreck it will be more than any party so cirenmetanced ever did hetore. Ot one thing we may rest assured—if this country is to prosper. at all, it can only be by steady adherence to whigh principles and whige measures, Let us take fresh courage, then What is there really in our present position to dishearten us? Out opponents have carried an election—that is all .--In all else there is hope—there is encouragement -there is the certainty of ultimate triumph .-

In the very circumstances of our recent defeat, we may perceive clearly the elements of a bri lant and lasting victory which at no distant day is to perch upon our glorious standard. The very means by which the Locolocos have gained this election have forever, sealed their political Let no while then think for one moment of throwing down his colors in despair. Brighter days await us if we are wise-if we are patient -if we are courageous-if we are true to ourselves. Let us stand by our-gliffious flug, to a man Let no whig be seduced, in a moment of irritation and disappointment, into any new movement which can detach him from the glorious Whig phalanx. Whatever of good can be accomplished for our country, can be better Some wondered, and some pitied, but none knew, done by the Whig party than any other. The formation of any new party can only divide our strength and weaken our defences against the common enemy. Let Nationism or any other ism work out their own ends if they can-but let there not divide us. So far as their sims are wise and patriotic, they will have the aid of the w se and patriotic of all other parties So far they will receive our aid-but let us yield it. without abandoning our own organization. Let us stand together, and all will yet be well.
